Celtx is a media pre-production tool designed to ease the work of those who work in the media production industry by providing a simple desktop utility for organizing the project information and making stories come alive. The application comes with all the necessary tools for writing scripts, plays, novels without using the pen and the paper. Whether you want to create a film, a play, a storyboard, a comic book or a novel, several project templates and a sample collection are available, which makes the program so much easier to work with. If you want more, you can always design your own templates from scratch. The graphical interface is well-organized and user-friendly, allowing you to navigate through the project library, view the scenes, print the script or save the whole project for later use. The media files are organized in different categories, so you can easily find sounds, documents, and images. Basic text editing tools are available (font type, color, zooming options and so on) and you have the possibility to add notes anywhere in the script. The index cards can be used for including additional details about every scene, while the included word collection (director indications, time words) can help you write the script faster. Once the story is finished, you can adapt it to the screenplay or the stageplay, storyboard, audio play or the comic book. The chat tool can help you share project information much easier with the pre-production crew. The title page, cast, and other reports can be edited separately using the built-in templates. The program comes with predefined cast categories that you can automatically include in your project, from actors and cameramen to animal handlers. Inline spell-checking, importing and exporting capabilities, character catalog and production scheduling are other features that this application comes with. Moreover, it includes advanced privacy options designed to protect your work from theft or unwanted access. All in all, Celtx comes in handy to every person that is part of the pre-production process. It provides a simple way of sharing information and allows writers to unleash their creativity, without worrying that their script is misinterpreted.

Scan to PDF is a utility that allows you to quickly scan and save any document to a PDF file. In this article we will analyze the global navigation of the SharePoint environment and the best ways to approach it. It's the most common request by SharePoint admins and users when they discover SharePoint for the first time. First of all, it's important to know what this strange SP navigation bar is all about. It is a link based navigation system with a horizontal navigation bar. It is located at the top of the screen and provides you with access to most of the SharePoint features. You can open navigation menus from this area in any way, but in most cases you can open these menus only via clicking on some icons. The global navigation bar is a kind of a shortcut that takes you directly to any list or document library in SharePoint Online, regardless of the location. If you're looking for a menu that leads you to all the documents, groups, site collections, or lists, it's a menu that you should be looking for. There are two types of global navigation menus: Active and hidden. You can configure these menus as you need. If you are a new SharePoint user, it's highly likely that the only menu available in your environment is the Global Navigation. Since SharePoint sites are collections of content, the navigation menu will provide you with a general overview of the entire SharePoint environment. Sometimes, when you set up a new site collection, you might want to organize it differently. In such a situation, it can be useful to expand the Global Navigation Menu and add additional areas. These additional navigation areas will not only help you better understand the SharePoint environment, but will also help you improve user experience when working with this information.

Navigation area characteristics Global Navigation is a horizontal navigation bar located at the top of the SharePoint screen. It provides access to the most essential features of the SharePoint environment. The top navigation bar is a standard SharePoint element that appears in all SharePoint environments and in all SharePoint mobile apps. The Global Navigation Menu is divided into 4 sections. The Home and Recycle Bin navigation area is located at the left side of the navigation bar. The third section is the Site Collection navigation area, which is also referred to as Active navigation area. By default, this area is empty. However, if you configure it, it will provide access to all SharePoint sites and
