mirrors Description To make things worse, the Americans were taken by surprise. Not only did the Japanese attack Pearl Harbor the day after the Thanksgiving holiday, they also attacked Guam and the Philippines just days before Christmas in one of the greatest military triumphs in history. The Japanese drove the Americans back to Hawaii. The American forces there and on Wake were crippled because the Japanese had used Pearl Harbor, Guam, and the Philippines as staging grounds. Guam should never have been attacked, or if it was, at least the base of operations should have been moved so that American troops could have been better able to resist the Japanese. As it was, the Americans had enough forces in the Philippines to hold on for a long time. It is for this reason that Guam was so important. It would have made a very long and costly campaign in the Philippines impossible. Both the United States and Japan went into World War II with the lofty goal of ending all wars. It didn't take them very long to do something that actually was aimed at starting another war. ReadCube is the only place for researchers, students, and teachers to find the best literature available in the field of historical research. We're looking forward to helping you with your project. Though we specialize in all aspects of history, we particularly focus on research methods: selecting the primary sources you will use in your paper, locating and verifying them, and arranging them in the best order for your paper. Download
