Deadline, sirf 24 ghante Deadline - Sirf 24 Ghante Deadline-Sirf 24 Ghante Holiday Highlights "When I first heard about this show, I knew I wanted to go, but I wasn't sure if I should tell my husband. My first thought was that he would get jealous and try to find a cheap ticket and not let me go. Then I figured it wasn't his business, so I told him. Since then, he has been begging me to go. I was so not prepared for this show. I had never seen the show before, never heard of 'The Sound of Music' and, according to my children, I was nowhere near my age! My darling husband stayed with me the whole time to see the performance, and although I did not understand much of it, it was magical and, of course, the children loved it, as it's so popular that they've seen it many times. I would recommend this show to any young adult. It's best for families with kids. The adults can pretend to be young adults, too, so don't worry about the kids also enjoying themselves. Evidence of genetic susceptibility to myelodysplastic syndromes. Myelodysplastic syndromes (MDS) are a heterogeneous group of clonal bone marrow stem cell disorders that are characterized by dysplasia and dyserythropoiesis. Other classical clinical features of MDS are anemia, thrombocytopenia and a hypercellular bone marrow. To date, the majority of cases of MDS are sporadic, but there is increasing evidence of a hereditary component in many cases. Interestingly, in a subgroup of these MDS cases, an inherited disease causing aplastic anemia appears to be the sole clinical manifestation of the disease. Recently, germ-line mutations in at least five genes were identified that are associated with hereditary forms of aplastic anemia. Genetic analysis of patients with MDS may therefore allow subtyping of this complex and heterogeneous group of diseases and may identify predisposing genes. Identification of genetic risk factors for the development of systemic lupus erythematosus. Systemic lupus erythematosus (SLE) is an inflammatory autoimmune disease of unknown etiology with diverse and complex clinical manifestations.
