More boards will be added for your design; you will begin with the first 5 boards, and then reach the 10, 20, 30, and eventually 60. Design: Weaving a good, cohesive storyboard is key to this challenge. Rabbit is broken into 5 parts, with a board placed in between each storyboard. Maintain this flow and you should be able to make your next year in no time. Rabbit is a fairly large course and is broken down into a total of 60 boards. Each board has a design style and uses a set number of unique obstacles. The course begins with the first five boards, and then adds an additional 10 boards, 20 boards, 30 boards, and 60 boards. This will allow you to develop your skills, while allowing you to start fresh with each new experience. Take advantage of the fact that you will be able to use

----- The game comes with a soundtrack with all the music needed to complete the game. Music is made by Raphael Meyer or Rosensteyer. Storyline: ----- The score of the game was entirely done by me. Storyline: V 2.0 ----- A story about a young girl and an old man. One day the young girl befriends a big bear and a little bear. After a little while they discovered where they came from. In the beginning, their homeland was a forest, but now is disnatured. Everyone lived together but they kept apart, one was kind and warm and the other was rough and cruel. The old man went to the ocean, he took a rope and swam into the middle of the ocean. He was so far away that he could not hear his animals, he only had the wind and his voice. After a while, the old man was out of oxygen and he had to come back to the little bear. The old man found a little crystal and he sent the crystal back to the roots of the forest. 2K is a Playstation 2 benchmark game. For each of its 12 categories, Syder is average across all Playstation 2 PC World Readers Lab, analyzed and reviewed the following topics: startup time, speed, frame rate, and resolution. At the conclusion of the article, Syder Arcade2K is overall rating in each of the 12 categories with 1 star (low) to 5 stars (high). The data used for this test was collected over the course of seven days in August 2007, using the methods described in the Single-Core Review Guide. System was unpowered for 24 hours before the test. Runs at a resolution of 1600x1200 with Vsync switched off. Startup Time: 2.15 Seconds Speed: 30.76 FPS Frame Rate: 26.88 FPS Syder Games As ever, the most difficult aspect of any PC World Lab test is getting a baseline number for the "regular" benchmark, as we run down the other boxes as we please. Here at the end of what has been a long day, and the end of our first term of hard work, we are all but clear. Syder has run 15,118,000 frames over the run, and this site is down to upload the data. As soon as this is done we will run another bench and announce the final latency, load, and success figures. "But what have we got now?" and "This isn't fair!" will soon join "You win again!" and "Me again! Well, me last time!" An oddity about Syder is that it is not "Doom 3 optimized." This makes it interesting because the difference in performance seen here is down to the effects of the game and its settings; the benchmark is not telling us that any quality of D3 has affected or improved the game. Although the average frame rate is more than 10 frames per second higher than the average Doom 3 benchmark (see graphics above for the extrapolation), the average latency of 38ms suggests that there is a further change in the hardware that caused a marked increase in the frame rate. Is it the quality of the video drivers? Are the cards just being idle for long periods of time, idling the CPU and waiting for the video refresh to happen? We cannot say but, in fairness, "Load" is providing a lower frame rate than Doom 3 and co. (and that is after we have disabled Vsync). "What's
